

Medical food products, in the form of liquid and powder for diabetic patients, used rice as the main raw material and all plant-based ingredients. No egg, milk, and allergen gluten ingredients. The amounts of macronutrients that provide energy and micronutrients to meet the nutritional goals set. Energy content 1 kcal/ml. The safety and efficacy of laboratory animals and humans have been studied. Results of a clinical study on volunteers with diabetes found no effect on complications and could control low blood sugar and insulin levels. In addition, it stimulates gastrointestinal hormone activity (GLP-1, PYY, GIP, and ghrelin), thereby improving insulin secretion, controlling hunger and satiety, controlling weight, and supplementing the diet to get the nutrients your body needs. Through the trial production in an industrial factory, ready for commercial production.